West of Krapkowice, at a distance of about 1-1/2 kilometers, a heavily guarded area is located, hidden in the woods. This area, entirely surrounded by a barbed wire fence, is approximately 2-1/2 kilometers long and 1-1/2 kilometers wide.

During World War II, the Germans operated an ammunition dump and assembly plant called Muza on this same site. The area consisted of numerous bunkers extremely well camouflaged. In 1945, the Germans attempted to blow up this plant, but did a poor job.

A State Building Company (Panstwowe Budownictwo) began reconstruction on this area in 1952. Three companies of infantry troops were sent here to work. One of the bunkers within the enclosure is surrounded by another barbed wire fence. Nature of the activity at this site is unknown.
